The attendents were Mrs. Dennis Vicchio of Lynchburg and Mrs. Coy Robbins of Brookneal, Miss Joanne Elder and Miss Beth Jones of Pamplin. They wore floor length dresses of rainbow colors of sheer organza with shirred tiered skirts and double flounced caplets. Their matching pearl strands were a gift from the bride. They carried nosegays of mixed pom pons and baby's breath to compliment each gown with satin streamers to match. Each attendent wore baby's breath head pieces.

Mr. Dennis Vicchio of Lynchburg was best man. Groomsmen were Brent Edwards of Lynchburg and Dave Warner of Norristown, Pennsylvania. Ushers were Jimmy Hammer of Forest, Virginia and Gregg McCall of Lynchburg.

The bride's mother wore a mint green floor length dress of quiana with sheer matching caplet and wore a white rose corsage. The groom's mother wore a light blue floor length dress of chiffon and wore a white rose corsage.

Organist was Miss Cynthia Hix of Pamplin and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vaughan of Appomattox sang "Devoted To You."

bringing up baby.

By Mrs. Dan Gerber

A loving, concerned and involved father is important for baby. More and more fathers are taking an active part in raising children, right from the beginning.

Baby needs these times with daddy. When daddy bathes, feeds and plays with baby, a trust and love develops that baby never forgets.

One of the most important times together is mealtime. Daddy can help baby grow physically and socially by making the experience happy and comfortable. Baby's tastes will expand as Daddy introduces a variety of nutritious Gerber meats, fruits, vegetables, cereals and juices.

A smart mother will show dad all the Gerber aids available in the supermarket baby department, too.

Improving Married Life?

When the pressures of living seem overwhelming, some married couples may be able to avoid becoming the one out of every two who wind up getting a divorce.

Troubled pairs can talk over any domestic or personal problem with a trained social worker who offers counseling services in the spirit of Christ at many Salvation Army family service centers.

Nothing related to marriage, family, parent-child relations, the individual, group or vocation is too big to talk over, or for the Army specialist to tackle.

In a smaller community where The Salvation Army may not have a trained social worker on the staff, its officers are always ready to give troubled couples the benefit of a sympathetic "outside" viewpoint about their family troubles.

The Army's Christian viewpoint on marriage and desire to help couples work things out and keep the family together, help many quarrelling couples find a new perspective.

The Salvation Army provides an atmosphere in which both partners can air their resentments, cool their tempers, and often re-establish their marriage on a better basis.

Some think throwing jade into water will cause rain, mist and snow.
